'Introduction to couple counselling and keeping the client's intimate partner in mind'

with Richard Lahey-James

Tuesday 26th March, 10.00-16.00

We will be looking at the relevance of the client's intimate partner in individual counselling and some steps counsellors might take if they wish to expand their practice to begin to offer couple counselling. Richard will be covering some essential components of couple and marriage counselling, highlighting several of the main models and his favourite interventions.

Richard Lahey-James is an accredited ACC counsellor and supervisor and a UKCP registered and accredited family therapist. In his private practice in south London he sees individuals, couples and families but majors on couple therapy. He also regularly teaches couple and family therapy at Waverley Abbey College and runs a Diploma in Integrative Counselling at Heart and Mind, London.'
